Need help in floods and storms? Call 132 500

132 500 is the number to call if you need the assistance of the State Emergency Service in non-life threatening emergency situations during floods and storms.

SES Volunteers help protect people and properties from storms in ACT by:

- Educating people about how to protect their family and property from storms
- Placing tarpaulins on roofs to further protect properties from hail, heavy rain or strong wind
- Cutting down threatening trees or branches during a storm
- Clearing debris or fallen trees to give access to roads and property
- Rescuing people trapped or injured by storm activity
